ABSTRACT

A world-wide and non-time based method of comparing images of children and determining the best child image, in which a child image of any person may be used. Instead of placing a time based restriction on images to be compared, images from any date from the inception of photography until the present may be used. No limitation on present age of the individual pictured, age of the photograph, or the like is used. The method may be embodied as a search, or as a contest or game. It may be embodied as a method of playing a game at home, a method of playing a television game, as an Internet method, as an advertising/business method, and as combinations thereof.
